

Thomas Tobiassen
DIRECTOR

Tom is a Director with Simione Healthcare Consultants specializing in information technology, operations, project management and interim management.

A Simione employee since 2009, Tom has more than 20 years of home health and hospice related experience in IT Project Management, IT Customer Service, and all aspects of computer software technical analysis, and development and installation.

Tom's experience as a project manager includes home health and hospice software implementation with agencies of all sizes, all home care business lines, and with multiple vendors. He excels in building and managing relationships with his clients, and with application technologists to ensure successful strategies while deploying solutions.

Tom's experience prior to Simione included working as a senior project manager for a national software company for large multistate clients. He is a graduate in MS Information Systems/IS Management/ Enterprise Systems Management from Stevens Institute of Technology, where he also earned a Graduate Certificate in Project Management/PMI Certification. He holds a B.A. from the College of New Jersey.

